* Note: For some reason, the server I decided to host my website with (GitHub) does not do a great job of hosting the website.When you navigate to other pages via the navigation bar at the top of the page, the raw HTML file loads in before everything else. As you saw in class, the website loaded perfectly fine on my computer, it is just a problem with the server I am hosting it on. The screenshots I provided in the folder above accurately reflect how the website should look under normal circumstances. If you would like to view the website again on my computer for further evaluation, please do not hesitate to reach out.
